Sculpture garden

Sculpture garden is a small Park in Vyborg near the railway station. In the Park you can see the sculptural compositions created by the participants of the Vyborg sculpture festival in 1988.

In the Sculpture garden we have only 9 sculptures. Here is some of them:

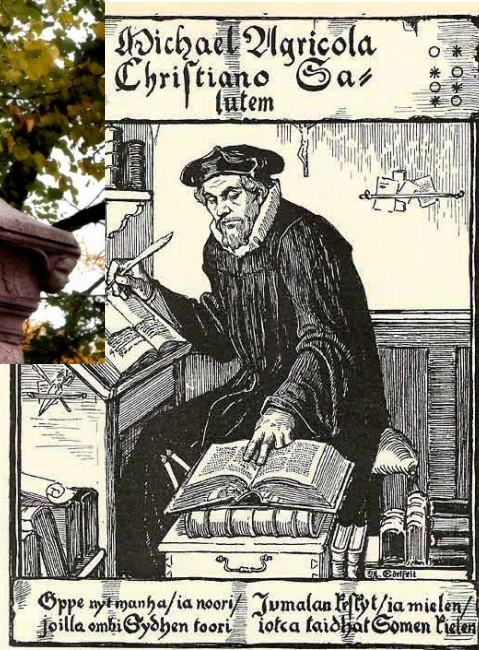

1. «The wolf» by V. Dimov
2. «The singing stone» by S. Aslanova
3. "Rest" V. Polozov

All works are made of grey granite Vyborg career "Revival".

Michael Agricola

Finland is one of the countries in which written literary language and literature have emerged as a result of Reformations. This work was done by Finnish scientists under the guidance of a talented linguist, theologian and humanist Mikael Agricola.

Michael Agricola had a rare talent as a linguist, was a theologian and humanist with extensive knowledge of the natural Sciences, law and medicine. Although , without a doubt, work on the manuscripts was his favorite pastime ,he wasn't a Desk scientist. He led the Finnish Church , unofficially at first, for ten difficult years.

Monument To Theodor Apraksin

Theodor Apraksin's memorial is situated in Peter's square of Vyborg, after entering the Krepostnoy bridge. Monument to the Peter the First's ally General-Admiral Theodor Apraksin (1661-1728) was solemnly opened on 19th of July 2010 and timed to the 300th anniversary of the Siege of Vyborg by Russian army, who were led by Duke Apraksin.

For this triumph he was awarded with Andrey Pervozvanny award.

Monument to Torgils Knutssor

Monument to Torgils

Knutsson, dedicated to the founder of Vyborg castle and Vyborg became the first monument in the city. It was installed in 1908 and stood for 40 years. At the same time, all this time disputes that "to the enemy of Russia" not a place on the main square of the city were conducted. After the war, the sculpture was removed and wanted to melt.

The statue of Thorgils Knutsson is mounted on a high granite pedestal facing the castle. In one hand the Marshal holds a sword, in the other – a shield with a heraldic lion, a symbol of strength, courage and generosity.
